SAMPLE

Prepared By: TimeHoodie Design

Version: 2.5 2020

How to Use This Resource

This worksheet will help us thoroughly plan and track the progress of your website redesign.

To help make the many moving pieces of a website redesign a little easier to digest, the process has been segmented into seven stages.

Use the tabs below to navigate to each stage, and be sure to thoroughly complete stages 1 and 2 before moving on. (While stages 1 and 2 primarily involve benchmarking, taking inventory, and answering important questions before we begin your website redesign, the latter stages are for tracking your redesign while it's in progress.)

Stage 1 - Strategy

Stage 2 - Plan

Stage 3 - Design

Stage 4 - Build

Stage 5 - Optimize

Stage 6 - Launch

Stage 7 - Analyze

WEBSITE DESIGN/REDESIGN STAGE 1: STRATEGY

A) Benchmark Your Current Metrics (if applicable) Your Data Before we begin planning your redesign, document your current Number of visits/visitors/unique visitors (monthly average) Bounce rate (monthly average) performance metrics using the fields to the left. Time on site (monthly average) Top performing keywords (in terms of rank, traffic and lead generation) If you don't have access to this information, you'll want to add a tool Number of inbound linking domains like Google Analytics or similar for better tracking and visibility into Total number of new leads/form submissions (per month) site performance. (We can help with that). Total amount of sales generated (per month) Total number of total pages indexed TIP: Keep note of which tools you used to determine these benchmarks. Ideally you'll want to use the same exact tools when Total number of pages that receive traffic B) Determine Your Goal(s). Your Answer Be very clear and specific about why you're doing the redesign in the first place and tie it to measureable results. Then communicate your goals with your team, designer, or agency. Why are you doing the design/redesign? C) Define Your Brand. Your Answer Before we begin crafting your content, please be clear about your What is your business's message/unique value proposition? branding and messaging so that it's consistent across your entire Is it (message and/or branding) changing or staying the same? website. A new visitor should immediately understand what you do, how it relates to them, and why they should stay on your website and not If it is changing, what about it needs to change? abadon your site to visit your competitors. D) Define Your Buyer Persona. Your Answer Your website is not just about you. When a visitor asks, "what's in it for me?" speak to them in their language by designing content Do you currently have a clearly defined target audience? Is this audience changing as part of this redesign? around buyer personas. Buyer personas are fictional representations of your ideal customers, based on real data about customer demographics and online behavior, along with educated speculation about their personal histories, motivations, and concerns. Does your branding and content currently align with that audience? Click here to learn more about creating buyer personas for your business. E) Analyze the Competition Your Answer While we don't recommend obsessing over your competitors, it helps to know how you compare. Take a look at competitor websites, and note what you like and don't like about them. This is not meant to Are there competitor sites that you really like? If so, which ones? What are the top 3 most competitive keywords for your industry? copy them, but to uncover what you can do better. TIP: Run competitor websites through HubSpot's Marketing Grader Who are your top-ranked competitors? so you are aware of their strengths and weaknesses.
